

Call for Coordinating Editor to join the editorial team at Social Alternatives

Social Alternatives is a volunteer-run multidisciplinary journal that publishes articles and commentary, critiques, and reviews of contemporary social issues and problems from a variety of Social Science and Humanities perspectives. It also publishes poetry, short stories, book reviews and images.

The editorial team is seeking a Coordinating Editor to replace our current editor who is retiring after several years in the position. The production of Social Alternatives is a team effort with input from several members of the editorial team and the editorial board. A Guest Theme Editor is responsible for the themed articles, commentary and other input relevant to the themed section of the journal. A Liaison Editor from the editorial board is assigned to assist Guest Editors. There are separate editors for Poetry, Short Story and Book Reviews. An Art Director oversees Cover Design and Desktop Publishing.

The role of the Coordinating Editor is:

- To oversee the collection of submissions from the other members of the editorial team
- To send these to our copy editor for final editing.
- Then forward the material to the Art and Desktop publishing editor.

The Coordinating editor also works with the Editorial Board and other members of the Editorial team in the selection and commissioning of future themed issues.

Further information on the journal and examples of issues are available on the website.
